

To The Federal Communications Commission

To Whom It May Concern:

I am an Indiana consumer with a family that has enjoyed the phone privacy that the State of Indiana has given us with the laws and no call lists that are in affect right now.

I think it would be a big mistake to relax those laws to violate our privacy.

In the future, if I want to talk to my bank or any of my creditors I will initiate the contact.

The only way a bank or creditor should be able to call a customer or debtor is if they are in default.

The no call lists and Indiana Privacy Laws have been a blessing in our home.
We enjoy evenings without unwanted disgusting nescience calls.

Sincerely yours;
David A. Thiel & Family
